

COLLEGE OF VETERINARY MEDICINE
UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA
Driven to Discover®

Are you a DVM interested in advanced research training?
Join us!

scan for more information and to apply

Advanced Training Program in Comparative Medicine and Pathology

The College of Veterinary Medicine at the University of Minnesota is now accepting applications from veterinarians seeking state-of-the-art research training in a NIH-funded training program. The goal of this program is to provide trainees with broad-based knowledge, quality communication skills, and advanced research training, which are essential for a successful career as a strong investigator.

Positions open now!

This program is an excellent opportunity for DVMs with or without a PhD to obtain an outstanding mentored research experience for 1-3 years. Stipends are paid at the NIH postdoctoral level, and additional childcare stipends are available. Use the QR code or contact information below for more information.

The University of Minnesota and the College of Veterinary Medicine are strongly committed to fostering a diverse community of students, staff, and faculty including individuals including racial minorities, disabled individuals, and individuals from disadvantaged backgrounds. Applicants from historically marginalized groups are especially encouraged to apply.

Visit our website or reach out to CVM Research Training Programs for more information or to ask questions.

cvmrtp@umn.edu

<https://z.umn.edu/cmpt>